Crowd blasts Grigsby

SOUTH BAY—A group of disgruntled citizens appeared Tuesday night before the city commission in what was apparently a planned demonstration against City Finance Director A. R. Grigsby, expressing dissatisfaction in a number of areas.

The crowd, including a number of city employees, packed the small commission chamber and often had to be called to order by Mayor Don Tanner as they hooted and jeered Grigsby or applauded his critics during the sometimes heated meeting.

The finance director was attacked by members of the crowd and Commissioners Woodrow "Woody" O'Neal, Vergita Cox and Jay S. Smith on subjects ranging from the slow pace of a contracted sidewalk construction project and high water bills to purchase order procedures and overtime pay, with a considerable amount of time spent on the city's fire department.

Several complaints on the amount of water bills, registered by three members of the crowd kicked off the criticisms. Grigsby offered to meet Wednesday with anyone who had complaints on their bills.

One man said water bill two months ago had been $28 and had more than doubled last month to $58 and this month it is $62.

Several people loudly commented they would refuse to pay their bills until the bills are adjusted.

Grigsby said if the city is at fault in any of the bills, they would be adjusted. Tanner told the crowd there had been a number of complaints because of a meter reader the city has since replaced. He said at least some of the complaints were probably justified since there had been a number of meters which hadn't been read on a regular basis and said this could be the problem on some of the bills receiving complaints.

There were also a number of objections voiced when the commission considered a resolution on a new contract with South Florida Sanitation which would increase garbage pickup rates 50 cents a month for residences $1.30 for commercial cans and $5 per month for containers.

The complaints didn't center around the prices, however, but about the service, which many citizens said hasn't improved and remains poor while prices continue increasing.

Mayor Tanner pointed out Commissioner Billy Wells met with Walter L. Cunningham, general manager for South Florida and got nowhere. Wells said Cunningham told him the company is losing money and the only alternative is a rate hike.

Tanner said there is no other way for the city to get garbage disposal service because there is no where to put the garbage should the city begin collecting it.

The commission took no action on the contract Tuesday, however. On the suggestion of Commissioner Cox, City Attorney Allen Eversard will draw into the contract a clause which would allow the city to get a refund if the company doesn't supply the service contracted for.

Grigsby said a number of the items brought up in the meeting were among the items he would like to discuss at that workshop in a workshop session set for next Tuesday night.

Mrs. Cox said one of the items she would like to discuss at that workshop is Grigsby's status with the city and his responsibilities and authority as the city's finance director and personnel director.

One of the attacks on Grigsby came from Mrs. Cox, who asked him what was being done about an $85,000 federal grant which Blaine Carmel of Group Seven said he intended to

Woman shoots self

A Belle Glade woman who had reportedly been suffering from high blood pressure and had been despondent was found Tuesday morning at her twin sister's home in Pahokee after she had apparently committed suicide.

Palm Beach County Sheriff's detective Tom Burrus said Ladora Jackson, 39, of 28 Davis St. in Okeechobee Center, was found by her sister, Lenora Latty. Burns said Mrs. Jackson had been shot once in the heart with a .32 caliber pistol.

Mrs. Jackson had reportedly been to a physician Monday and was supposed to have seen a doctor in West Palm Beach Tuesday. She had spent the night at her sister's home.

Mrs. Latty, Burrus said, had left her home at 5 a.m. to go to work and was supposed to have taken her sister to the doctor in West Palm when she returned.

When she came back home, Mrs. Latty found her front door locked and, looking in a back window, saw her sister on a bed.

Drive ends

Glades Area United Way Chairman B. Carlton White handed out certificates of appreciation last week to volunteers who had just completed the charity's most successful fund drive ever in the western part of Palm Beach County.

White told the volunteers that while the goal of $25,000 had not as yet been reached, there was a possibility it may still be reached within two possible contributions make their donations.

"He said the group had managed to raise a total, up through last week, of $23,631, some $5,000 over what had been raised last year.

"A total of $13,000 was raised last year," White said, "but that didn't include employees in the schools."

White noted this is the first year United Way has conducted its annual fund raising campaign in the Glades, using all Glades chairman and volunteers and it has paid off handsomely.

Whether it was the number of his boat or just plain hard luck, Rick Higley of Maitland had a hard way to go to finish the last 50 yards of an hour-long marathon on the Riva Canal Sunday. Who could blame Higley for becoming a triskaidephobic (a $13 dollar word for someone who fears the number 13) after having to hand-paddle his way to the finish line through wakes being tossed up by the big inboards coming out of the slips for the next race? But if he was up the Rim Canal without a paddle, Higley was also well ensconced in the admiration of fans like the two boys watching from a tree on the canal bank. Higley's propeller fell off as he rounded the last buoy and he refused offers of two boats to tow him in until he had made it across the finish line under his own power, even if it did take longer than Number 80, below.

Wayne Stanley may still make it to Miami

Stanley

There is still a chance Glades Central alumni of 1972 can see classmate Wayne Stanley in the Orange Bowl with Iowa State, although he may be sidelined with the knee injury he received Saturday in the Cyclone's win over Nebraska.

"The Cyclones are part of a five-way tied race for the championship of the Big Eight Conference and if two games this Saturday go right, they'll be coming to Stanley's native South Florida for a bowl game."

Stanley, who has helped lead the Cyclones to the best overall record this year in the Big Eight, will be with the team should they make that trip.

But whether he'll play, if the trip is made, will depend on what the Cyclone team doctors decide can be done about his knee. The ligaments of Stanley's knee were torn in the last play of the first half of Saturday's game.

"If he'd been any other player," said Rod Williamson of the Cyclone staff Monday, "they'd have cut it today but we're looking for every possible way to keep him in for the last game and possibly a bowl game."

Williamson said everyone connected with the football team is upset about the again this year. They could put a cast on the knee, putting him out of the Oklahoma State game but possibly allowing him to play in the Orange Bowl should the team be invited. Lastly, they might do nothing for the time being and there is still a chance he could play in one or both of the two possible remaining games.

Williamson said everyone connected with the football team is upset about the injury, both because Stanley is personally popular and what the injury means to him and because of his status and what he means to the team's effectiveness.

If Stanley's chances of playing in the Orange Bowl are affected by the injury he received in the Nebraska game, that's only a part of it. There is still a lot of doubt about which team will

Man charged with murder

A Belle Glade man charged last Wednesday with attempted murder found himself a bit more important over the weekend when the woman he was accused of beating died and his charges were changed to murder in the first degree.

Jerry Simmons, 28, who listed both 540 S. W. Ave. E and 409 S. W. 10th St., was reported being held without bail in the Palm Beach County Jail this week following the death Saturday of Janie Mae Rhodes, 31, of 509 S. W. 10th St. in St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Mrs. Rhodes was found by one of her children, according to a Belle Glade Police Department report, in her apartment. She had been beaten unconscious.

He may have found it but it isn't likely it was at that telephone number. The semi-mysterious "it" can be found in Belle Glade too, but only by dialing 996-0900, not 0060-966. By some mistake of the outdoor billboard people, the elusive telephone number was pasted on the billboard stop The Pit upside down. So what are you waiting for? Go ahead and find it.

Belle Glade Police Ball set for Saturday

The Belle Glade Police Benevolent Association Ball Saturday night will feature the music of the Southern Express and City Magic, according to PBA member Alida Gill, and the festivities will get underway at 10 p.m. at the Belle Glade Elks Lodge 1716.

Mrs. Gill said tickets are still on sale for the event and will also be available at the door for $20 per couple. Advance tickets may be obtained by calling George

P. Farnall at 996-3616. As usual, guests may bring their own bottles and purchase ice and setups at the dance. Mrs. Gill said there would be a midnight buffet and seven door prizes will be awarded.

The proceeds of the ball will go toward buying life insurance for the PBA members as well as donations to local schools and providing help to needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Voice from the Wilderness

By Andy Campanaro

One week into Belle Glade and Shooker makes one thing very clear - this isn't just another Florida town. The division of what generally are called "minorities" here is great, with just about every creed and color represented.

On the other hand, the average businessman is deep south, and has already been called a damned Yankee several times. Some made a mistake and called me a Yankee, pure and simple, but taint so, bozo.

A "yankee", pure and simple, is a fast-talking northerner who comes south, leaves his money and goes home again. A "damned Yankee" is one who gives up the splendor of dirty snow and baseball-bat sized mosquitoes to come south and bask in the sunshine for a lifetime.

I'm a damned Yankee and proud of it. I've carefully cultivated the soft vowel and clipped consonant, and have slowed my bulky weight down to eeeze along amongst the good people. No better way to describe what has happened in our family than to tell you my mother and father live in Daytona Beach, whilst my sister and brother-in-law live happily in Glens Falls, New York. Sister Patricia thinks a trip south means a visit to her daughter in Long Island.

Well, this last time around my parents and I voted for Carter while sister Pat and husband voted for Ford. Dad is kind of caught in the middle cause he still has to operate his businesses up in the New York mountains in the snowdrifts and is prime target for sister Pat's ire when she found out what happened.

"What'd you go and vote for that Jimmy Carter for?" Pat demanded of dad. "You can't even understand him when he talks, and what he does say sounds like all those farmers down there are going to get more money from our taxes. Hasn't New York got enough troubles?"

To which Dad replied, "Well, your mother and Butch (that's me) ganged up on me and convinced me it was the smartest thing to do."

Thing is, I don't have to worry about it, 'cause the only thing that's going to get me north of the Mason-Dixon line again is maybe a funeral, but that's all, brother.

Trouble is I'm in the business of selling advertising here, and selling, like a lot of things, is done differently in the South than up north. Up north, a salesman comes to a house and the proprietor slams the door in his face or just never opens up the several locks and chains, just saying "go way, don't want any."

Down here, the proprietor will smile and chickle, inviting me to come in, saying: "Boy, am I glad you're here. I want to hear all about your product and make it good now. I want to hear a good sales pitch cause all I've heard all day is my secretaries and workers grying about one thing or another and just making my life miserable. Now you sit down and have some coffee, if you can stand it, and just let me hear the best sales pitch you've got."

So I get all steamed up and happy and just tell the man how great the paper is and how much we can do for him. I outline all kinds of ideas and campaigns and get all worked up while he sits back, relaxing and sipping his brew.

Then the pitch is over and I sit back, tired but happy, expired by expectant and the man beams at me and says: "Yes sir, that was just wonderful. I loved to hear it. You know, I think those folks in the shop down the road are going to buy some."

Not one cent!

Millions for tribute but not a copper for our friends.

That could be the battle cry of the negotiating table in Paris nowadays. So here we go around, round and round the mulberry bush and what the heck are we gonna have at the end of the talk, talk, talk.

America supposedly backed out of the conflict in Vietnam four years ago and it doesn't really matter if one wishes to call it a war between two countries, with the U.S. of A. honoring a treaty or we were meddling into a civil war.

The fact remains that no civilized country except the Soviet Union has, in modern times, withheld knowledge of troops missing in action, or held prisoners, for that long a time after hostilities have ceased...or at least that long after the guns have been silenced.

Just so long as the men in Hanoi figure they might still get a few billions of dollars for information on the 800 groups missing in action, that's how long they're going to keep that information to themselves.

The word is out that Hanoi wants three things to come from these talks in Paris: They want several billion bucks in reparations from Uncle Sugar. They want membership in the United Nations and they want normalization of relations with Uncle Sam.

It's really very simple. We agree to normalize relations and sponsor Vietnam's membership in the U. N. and they return every American prisoner they are still holding and furnish complete information on the other men missing in action.

That shouldn't take more than half an hour, even in diplomatese. Let 'em know that when they have the information and the prisoners are released, we fulfill our part of the bargain...not one moment earlier.

As for the reparations. Not one red cent. They went to the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China for aid during the war, let 'em go there now.

The first president to broadcast in a foreign language was Franklin Delano Roosevelt who addressed the French people on November 7, 1942 from Washington, D.C.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Went out Friday night to watch the Glades Day Gators bomb the Florida Air Academy and saw a wonder. The Air Academy was using the old Tennessee Sing Wing offense. First time I'd seen used that well since I was in high school.

What was fascinating was to see the single wing on one team while the Gators were using the wishbone. That was something like watching a Stanley Steamer running at Daytona against a modern Formula One racer.

Which might have turned out the same way since the old Stanley's were supposed to have been pretty quick on the draw.

Matter of fact, I was talking to Riley Foster after the game and he confirmed what I'd thought. Put a modern high school team up against a single wing and they could get hurt if they don't adjust very well...and...were the other team has some talent.

Fortunately, the Gators adjusted in the second half and were able to key on the only really effective running back the Florida Air Academy team has and pretty well choke them down. Riley said it helped he'd practiced the Gators a little on the single wing too.

The reason the formation was so fascinating to me, though, is that's the one used all the time by my high school coach. Barney (the Bear) Seary faked out many a team and...were the state championship back in the fifties with a single wing.

The thing about it was that even then, these couldn't have been more than a thumbful of teams around the state using it and no one really knew how to defense it. It was something like seeing a dinosaur in your back yard. Say, what would the modern deer hunter use to go after Tyrannosaurus Rex? Take some adjusting wouldn't it?

Matter of fact, something tells me you'd have to call in the National Guard and let them do the adjusting because I couldn't see talking on Mr. with anything shy of a bazooka. Just don't think your run of the mill .410 would do the trick.

But talk about someone doing some adjusting, how about that racer in the marathons Sunday at the marina?

Talk about being up the creek without a paddle, that was him. Came around that last buoy and lost his prop so he just paddled on in with his hands. Had his outboard running though. I'll guess it counted as finishing a race.

But that was doing it the hard way, especially when those inboards came roaring out in his path. Looked to me like he was paddling two feet and getting washed back three there for a while but he wasn't having any of the help he was offered until he'd crossed the finish line.

Seemed like a pretty good turnout for the marathons too. It's pretty good when a community can get something like that going once a period of time.

Now if we could get a few more things like that to draw crowds... especially during the summer when everything else is going so slow...

WHEN WILL THE SPENDING END?

It took 73 years, until 1962, for federal spending to hit $100 billion a year. But by 1971, only nine years later, government spending had jumped to $200 billion a year.

THEN CONSIDER: In 1975, only four years later, government spending actually had reached $300 billion a year. And this year, after just two years, spending broke the $400-billion-a-year barrier.

NOW STOP LOOK AND THINK!

Such huge spending has resulted in a bigger and bigger government debt. The interest alone on the national debt has more than doubled in ten years and is now over $40 billion a year. In fact, the interest burden on the debt constitutes ten percent of the federal budget!

Ask your representatives in Washington whether they have the courage to help stop this deadly trend. If they do not, we'll eventually wake up to find ourselves living in a fool's paradise.

This editorial comment appeared in the October 1976 issue of Reader's Digest.

How about a coffee break

Considering the rising fortunes, literally, of coffee growers, there are a lot of Americans who may be thinking it's time to have a tea party; with the difference it could be held all along the east coast instead of in Boston, and coffee beans would be tossed into the harbor.

The coffee habit could be one of the hardest vices America could choose to break but with one-pound cans soaring over and above $2 each and another price hike in the offing, there could be a mass defection to tea as the morning stimulant.

Considering the price of tea is holding steady at about a penny a cup (made at home from tea judiciously bought while on sale) and coffee is running upwards of 30 cents a cup, it might even be time to consider growing the bean in the United States.

It's especially interesting to note that if coffee has the same immediate future sugar had recently, the price could drop to as little as 25 cents a bag. We'd be satisfied if it would drop back to the 98 cents a pound it was a year ago.

People just aren't used to the idea of paying more per pound for coffee than for a steak and if the price continues to rise, people are going to start finding just how good that last drop in the cup is.

Crissman runs wild again as Glades Day wins 20-12

The Glades Day School Gators absorbed two quick strikes by an unfamiliar single winged Florida Air Academy before adjusting enough to loose three bombs of their own and come away winners, 20-12.

Glades Day Coach Riley Foster said his charges had obviously looked past Florida Air, who came to town with an 0-7 record, towards the all-important game against Moore Haven Friday, the game which will determine whether the Gators get a crack at the state championship.

The Gators had troubles right off the bat as they took the opening kickoff on their own 48, only to have the Florida Air Falcons sack quarterback Tommy Duda the first play from scrimmage on his own 26.

Mitch Crissman made up for that, however, as the classy running back slashed across the line for a pickup back to the Falcon 49. That play keyed a 13-play drive down to the Falcon 15, where a field goal attempt on 4th and 6 failed and the Falcons trotted out the ancient single wing offense. Coach Foster said later the Gators had received limited practice with the single wing but the Florida Air attack shocked Glades Day with an 80 yard drive in nine plays, with 63 of those yards gobbled up in one pass play from the Falcon 33 yard line to the Gator 49.

The 6'11" 200 pound Falcon fullback, who had tossed the 63 yard bomb, attempted to pound across the Gator line for a two-point conversion but failed and Florida Air led, 6-0 with 2:28 left in the first quarter.

The Falcons struck again early in the second quarter, capitalizing on a fumble by Duda on his first play from scrimmage.

Three running plays and two passes later, the Falcons owned a 12-0 lead over the Gators with 11:22 remaining in the first half, after another two-point conversion attempt failed.

The Gators' next score was set up the second play in the second half when Buckner intercepted a Florida Air pass on the Falcon 32 yard line and hauled it back to the 20 before being stopped.

Winston Byrd rammed the ball over the goal line from four yards out four plays later to tie the game up, 12-12. The PAT kick was wide and it was a new ball game with 9:04 left in the third period.

defensive player recovered a fumble on the 21.

That was the turning point of the game as the Gators adjusted to the single wing offense and keyed the rest of the night on Florida Air's number 37, Marrero, a Brooklyn-born halfback who had managed to baffle the Gator defense during the first half.

The Gator offense had also managed to adjust to the Falcon defense, which rapidly tired during the rest of the night.

The next series of plays for the Gators produced the last scoring of the night as Glades Day ran and passed down to the Falcon one foot line, where guard Chuck Royal recovered a team mate's fumble and dove into the end zone, putting the Gators into an 18-12 lead.

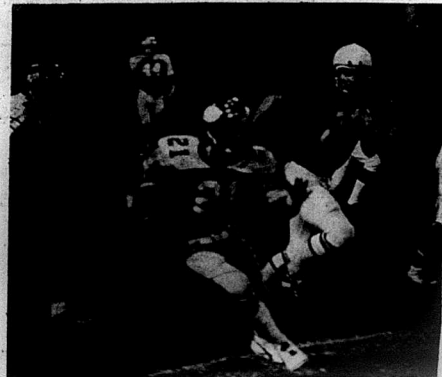

The extra point came hard and only after two unsuccessful attempts, one at kicking and one at passing, and three penalties, which left the ball at the Falcon 12 yard line for the third attempt.

Duda gave the ball off to Crissman on that attempt and Crissman fought his way over the goal with three Falcon defenders hanging onto him for the last three yards, giving the Gators their final 20-12 score with 10:37 left in the game.

Mitch Crissman once again dominated the Glades Day offense, rushing 15 times for 127 yards and receiving three passes for another 25 yards. Ken Buckner ran another six times for 41 more yards and Tommy Duda ran seven times for 25 yards.

Buckner led the Gator defensive unit by making six tackles, 12 assists and snaring an interception. Danny Kirchman followed with six tackles and an assist; Winston Byrd made five tackles and six assists; Danny Priest made three tackles, four assists and recovered a fumble and Tim Burke made another key interception.

Overall, Glades Day dominated the night by rushing for 213 yards and passing for 68 while Florida Air rushed for 111 yards and passed for another 125.

The Wonderful World Of Tomorrow

Automobile experts know that one way to save energy for the future is to have lighter cars. They also know that one way to have lighter cars is to make more parts of plastic. It has been predicted that by 1980, there will be 400 pounds of plastic in every car.

An increasing number of plastic parts will probably be seen on American cars. That's a pretty healthy idea since they can't develop the unsanitary, dirt-collecting crannies that china can.

It has been predicted that by the year 2,000, the plastics industry will contribute so much to the American economy that it will account for 7.2 percent of the Gross National Product and employ 1.3 percent of the labor force.

Break One-Nine!

Use your eyes before you use your ears.

Before you think about putting up your CB base antenna, make sure you've got your signals straight.

To begin with, Citizen Band antennas, unlike TV antennas, are under FCC regulations.

FCC and local rules sometimes differ on the allowable height. So, before erecting your antenna, check with the appropriate authorities.

And when you're ready to put it up, check on one other thing - the clearance.

The slightest touch of your antenna or guy wire to a power line could cause you a serious shock.

Here's how to play it safe. Make sure that you check all directions. In other words, not only the space above the antenna but all around. So, if your antenna should happen to fall, it won't happen to fall onto a power line.

How far away is safe? Certainly a distance no less than the height of the mast.

This safety rule not only goes for CB antennas but TV antennas as well. Or any metal pole for that matter.

And here's another word of caution; even when using guy wires to raise or lower your antenna you can't be assured of positive control. So, better double check the clearance.

So many people are now tuning into CB that we thought you should also be tuned into the necessary safety requirements.

This safety message has been brought to you by Florida Power and Light as a public service. Because serving the public is really what we're here for.

150 attend sugar seminar in Clewiston

Approximately 150 persons from 20 countries participated recently in a Sugar cane Mechanization Seminar conducted by the Americas Cane Operation of Massey-Ferguson, Inc. in Clewiston.

The two one-week seminars were taught by company personnel as well as sugar cane mechanization experts from Florida, Louisiana and Texas. One participant from Guatemala had attended the first seminar of this kind on harvesting wholestalk sugarcane in Louisiana in 1961.

The seminar closed Saturday morning with a demonstration of a one-row mechanical planter for short cane and a preview of the Massey-Ferguson model 205 Harvester, which is undergoing pre-production testing in Australia, Florida and Texas.

This company has been building harvesters since 1957 and presently have about 2,600 harvesters working in several parts of the world.

Approximately 170 mechanical harvesters are being used in Florida with about 30 per cent of the

Dateline History

FT. WASHINGTON, N. Y., Nov. 13, 1776 - Red ripples of British infantry and green and blue streams of Hessian jaegers and other German foot are beginning to wear up against the base of the rambling fort on this Manhattan Island hill called Mt. Washington.

Can Fort Washington survive as the last foothold of the Americans on Manhattan? Or is it sheer folly to defend this area about a mile long and 230 feet high? Opinion is divided among top generals.

Gen'l Washington can't seem to make up his mind about the strategic value of the fort on the Hudson. Is he prepared to risk nearly 3,000 lives for this place? And if he succeeds, what good is the fort? It has so far failed to stop British shipping on the Hudson.

Now Maj. Gen'l Nathaniel Greene, his man and supplies he surrounded save for possible escape down the sharp cliffs overlooking the river.

Gen'l Washington, who has split his command, leaving most of his troops with Maj. Gen'l

Charles Lee to guard the route to New England, has brought 2,500 men to Fort Lee across the river from here. He could use the garrison at Fort Washington to block a possible British thrust across New Jersey towards the Congress at Philadelphia.

Washington is shocked and disappointed to find only a few New Jersey recruits awaiting him at Fort Lee instead of the 5,000 he expected would arise to defend their homeland.

But worse than his shock is his indecision over Fort Washington. Adjutant General Joseph Reed, friend and former aide to Gen'l Washington, has been beseeching the commander in chief to abandon the fort.

Washington gave Greene an opinion just five days ago that since the fort hadn't stopped British shipping, the Gen'l was "inclined to think it will not be prudent to hazard the men and stores at Mount Washington."

Washington, however, has left the final decision up to Greene, the 34-year-old Rhode Island blacksmith who walks with a limp and wheezes when he talks.

Greene, usually respected for his sound judgement, refuses to allow further retreats because he feels they will lower the morale of militiamen who continue to desert in sizeable numbers.

"I cannot conceive the garrison to be in any great danger. The men can be brought off at any time," Greene told me.

I hope, for the sake of Greene, for the sake of Gen'l Washington, and especially for the sake of the men themselves, that this Rhode Island ironmonger is right.

I also hope that my colleague Ellis on the New Jersey side can manage to boat me off this rock if things should, as they often do, go wrong.

Three GCI employees take part in training program

The Department of Offender Rehabilitation has announced that Glades Correctional Institute employees Milton Weimer, Harold Cox and George Peltz recently participated in the Correctional Training Institute at Railroad, Florida. This is the fourth CTI group to enroll in the minimum standards curriculum, which is required by law. The training institute program is taught in conjunction with Lake City Community College, and the graduates earn nine semester credits for successfully completing the full time, 160 hour course.

Glades residents named to Human Relations Bd.

Six Glades area residents were appointed Tuesday night by the Palm Beach County School Board to the West Area Human Relations Committee. The committee members are Lee Borchert and Harvey Poole of Belle Glade and Arthur Nagler of Pahokee. Named for the first time were Willard C. Taylor Jr. of Belle Glade, Benick Morris of South Bay and Mrs. Mary L. York of Canal Point.

Three of the members of the committee are veterans and were reappointed while three were new to the board. Reappointed were Lee Borchert and Harvey Poole of Belle Glade and Arthur Nagler of Pahokee. Named for the first time were Willard C. Taylor Jr. of Belle Glade, Benick Morris of South Bay and Mrs. Mary L. York of Canal Point.

The Human Relations Committee was first formed in 1970 and was meant to ease West area schools through racial integration but integration isn't the primary concern of the committee these days.

One of the problems faced by the committee over the past few years has been giving the community at large involved in the schools and one of the members' roles is acting as a liaison between the schools and the community.

The three new members are replacing Mrs. Kay C. Davis of Belle Glade, Mrs. Helen Lovely of South Bay and Mrs. Elizabeth McKinney of Pahokee. The School Board approved the request made by School Superintendent Joseph Carrell.

Seminar held on citrus

A horticultural seminar on the problems of raising citrus trees in Palm Beach County will be offered Glades residents at 2 p.m. today at the Glades Office Building by Urban Horticulturist Gene Joyner.

Joyner, who is connected with the county Department of Agriculture and the Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service, will give a slide presentation on the varieties of citrus grown in this area and also the insects, diseases and other problems one is likely to encounter in growing citrus here.

"Many Palm Beach County residents enjoy growing their own fruit trees and many people are very successful in doing this

"Eternal vigilance is the Price of Liberty"

★ ★ Wendell Phillips 1852 ★ ★

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well wisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others. . . ."

"Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation. . . ."

"While every state of feeling such as this shall universally or even very generally prevail throughout the nation, vain will be every effort and fruitless every attempt to subvert our national freedom. . . ."

AMEN!!

Our previous heritage included in the flag of the United States, is an eternal duty as it was written for the eyes in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. It is a duty for all the world to see and for all Americans to feel. The Declaration of Washington, Jefferson, and Hamilton, we have a privilege, a right, and a duty. While we are Americans we are the authors, the authors, the authors of the history of preserving the greatest democratic society the world has ever known. The flag is a symbol, not of material, but of history, the history of men and women willing to live and die for it. Happy the welcome to men and women who experience more of the knowledge that men have - and because we are Americans.
